THE HAIR

When not properly cared for, loses its lustre, becomes crisp, harsh, and dry, and falls out freely with every combing.

To prevent this, the best and most popular dressing in the market is Ayer's Hair Vigor.

It removes dandruff, keeps the scalp cool, and restores the hair to its original color, and imparts to it a silky texture and a lasting fragrance.

By using this preparation, the poorest hair of the poorest person can be made to become luxuriant.

And beautiful. All who have ever tried Ayer's Hair Vigor, want no other dressing.

Galbraith & Starks, Druggists, Sharon Grove, Ky., write: "We believe Ayer's Hair Vigor to be the best preparation of the kind in the market, and sell more of it than of all others. No drug store is complete without a supply of it."

I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor with great benefit and know several other persons, both men and women, who have experienced similar good results from the use of this preparation. It restores gray hair to its original color, promotes a new growth, gives lustre to the hair, and cleanses the scalp of dandruff. —Bernardo Ochoa, Madrid, Spain.

A number of other preparations without any satisfactory result. I find that Ayer's Hair Vigor is causing my hair to grow."

J. C. Bennett, General Merchant, Indian Head, N. W. T.

"My wife's hair is the only preparation I have ever found to remove dandruff, cure itching humors, and prevent loss of hair. It can be confidently recommended."

"My wife believes that the money spent for Ayer's Hair Vigor was the best investment she ever made. It has given her hair such satisfaction." —James A. Adams, St. Augustine, Texas.

A NEW PAPER IS TO BE STARTED AT

Little Falls by Will Workman now connected with the Herald.

The democratic nominee for congress, Maj. Baldwin, is an unknown quantity outside of Duluth, and the votes in November will prove the assertion.

The Brainerd democratic congressional convention stood out for free trade, pure and simple, and there were those there who dared to so assert. There is nothing like going on record in such matters.

The Stearns county statesman, Henry Keller, is sore over the results of the democratic congressional convention and it is uncertain if the wound will heal before the November election. The fight was Duluth against the entire district and Duluth won.

When mention was made that a soldier he had never applied for a pension, at the democratic convention on Tuesday, every delegate cheered lustily, and in fact what appeared to be the best bit of the day to the democrats was a direct insult to every old soldier in the district.

Dr. A. A. Ames, the erst-while student prophet and Clevelandist of Minnesota democracy, seems to be having a hard time of it trying to convince the public that he is still a very proper man. By the way, isn't this the fellow who was spoken of for a trotting mate for Grover some four years ago?

A DISPATCH states that A. DeLacy Wood, of Sauk Rapids, Two Harbors and elsewhere, has arrived at Millaca and will conduct a democratic campaign sheet to aid the representative ticket in the Forty-ninth district. He is said to be aided by Stivers, of Brainerd, and other leading democrats of the district.

DEMOCRATS in public life feel as much confidence in President Harrison's wisdom and patriotism as do republicans. The bill according to the president power to levy retaliatory duties on Canadian vessels passing through our canals passed both houses with not a single dissent from any democrat, although Representatives Turner (dem. Ga.) pointedly called attention to the fact that the power conferred on the president is exactly similar to that in the reciprocity clause of the McKinley law. Democrats know that this large discretionary power is safe in President Harrison's hands.

It is claimed that the democracy of none of the democratic state nominees has ever been questioned. H. H. Hawkins, of Carlton county, however, is an exception, and he is the nominee for lieutenant governor on the free trade ticket. Two months ago Hawkins was an active candidate for the people's party congressional nomination in the Sixth district and did not care who knew it. On the first ballot he received 12 votes; then the famous literary gem from Kittel Halversen, declining the nomination, was read; the Hawkins men then went to Parsons, and the Duluthian was named on the next ballot. Hawkins is therefore not a dyed-in-the wool democrat and there is much waving in the democratic camp.

In an article in the Minneapolis Tribune last week concerning legislative politics in this district, J. D. Jones is mentioned as a candidate for the legislature. This is news up this way. —Todd County Argus.

The campaign year in Minnesota will require boodle. Harefoot candidates have run on tick, and if they got left a cent they would be the losers. Now the state prints and furnishes the tickets and before a candidate can have his name put on he must lay down the cash with the proper officers. To run on the county ticket costs $20 and to run on the state ticket $50. It is pay or not pay now. The Australian system, however, will make it cheaper in many ways. A candidate cannot be forced to pay any assessment except to the state. With this done he is sure that his name will be on all tickets.

There will be no expenses for distributing tickets neither will there be any necessity for a man to stand at the polls and distribute them. In this respect there will be a great saving. —Fergus Falls Journal.

Had a Little Row.

The Stearns county delegates to the Brainerd convention on Tuesday had quite a social time among themselves, although the wiser heads of the convention managed to prevent the difficulty from being brought before the convention. It seems that John P. Hammer, a member of the Stearns county delegation stated that the democrats would have to put up a strong man if they expected to beat Judge Searle and he doubted if the republican nominee could be beaten anyhow. The balance of the delegation made up their minds that Mr. Hammer leaned towards the S. C. C. candidate and a caucus was called at which a resolution was passed to the effect that Mr. Hammer was in no wise a democrat and that his sympathies were not in accord with the democratic party and declared his seat in the convention vacant. The gentleman was not present when this happened although he was invited, so the delegation was called together in one corner of the opera house just before the afternoon session for his benefit. As none of his companions appeared to be sorry for what they had done he accepted the situation as gracefully as possible and occupied a seat alone during the conventions deliberations.

A FREE TRADE DOSE.

The democrats nominate M. R. Baldwin, of Duluth, for Congress.

The democratic congressional convention for the new Sixth district was held in this city on Tuesday, and each of the twenty counties, excepting Beltrami, which are included in its boundaries were represented and seventy-five out of the 114 delegates were present. The convention was called to order at 10:30 by Chairman Stivers who seized the opportunity to deliver a speech on the tariff which was eagerly devoured by the delegates, at the end of which he announced that at a caucus held the evening before D. T. Calhoun, of Stearns county, had been selected for chairman and J. H. Wendell, of Wright, and C. F. McDonald, Jr., of St. Louis county, as secretaries. The caucus nominees were immediately elected by the convention. Mr. Calhoun took the platform and spoke for fifteen minutes, in which he claimed reciprocity was a humbug, but failed to say why, that the republican campaign was one of falsehood and deception and predicted that this year only democrats would be elected to office. This appeared to please his hearers immensely.

The usual committees were appointed. Senator Geisler heading the committee on resolutions, C. A. Moody on credentials and H. A. Pettit on permanent organization.

The convention then adjourned and the afternoon session commenced at 2 o'clock by accepting the various committee reports.

On resolutions the Chicago platform was endorsed and a demand for the reduction of the tariff to a purely revenue basis made.

Col. E. C. Gridley the nominated M. R. Baldwin, of Duluth, for Congress and endorsed to some extent his past career, and the nomination was made by acclamation, and after speeches from several gentlemen adjourned.

A WELL MERITED WORD.

The value of baking powder consists in the fact that the proportion of alkali and acid is exact, and there is no danger of having yellow biscuits from an excess of soda, or heavy ones from an excess of acid. It is probable that many of the powders are adulterated, some with injurious substance, and others with harmless addition to increase the bulk and consequently the profits. In our own family we have excellent results from the use of the Royal Baking Powder. We have no reason to think that it contains any harmful ingredient. Those who object to the use of baking powder because of adulteration must needs be very sure of the purity of the soda and the cream of tartar they use in place of the powder. —N. Y. Christian Union.

The Planet Mars.

The great sensation in astronomical circles at present is the planet Mars, which the Fargo Argus, which is now in opposition to the earth; that is to say the earth intercepts itself directly between that planet and the sun. Mars is smaller than the earth, its diameter being only about one half and its volume one-seventh that of our globe. It moves in an orbit outside that of the earth, being several million miles more distant from the sun; the distance now from the earth is only about 35,000,000 miles, which is 13,000,000 less than when the two planets are farthest apart. It happens that August 17, was the time of the nearest approach of the two worlds, and they will not be close together again until the year 1903. But on account of the low southern declination of Mars observation from our northern hemisphere (where the largest telescopes are) is now difficult. In 1894 the planet will be further north, and thus in better position to be seen through the great Lick telescope, although not quite so near, so that there will be plenty of time for careful observation. Mars is supposed to be more like the earth than any of the other heavenly bodies; that is, it has continents, seas, an atmosphere and clouds, but owing to its diminutive bulk the attraction of gravitation is much less. M. Flammarion, the French astronomer is of the opinion that the conditions of life upon the planet Mars are very agreeable; its geography, climate, the mouths of its great rivers, its immense canals, are very inviting, and the planet itself being older, smaller, lighter in weight and more quickly cooled than the earth, is further advanced in its astral life, and presumably contains intelligent beings who are far superior to us. The weather on Mars is almost always fine. A prominent subject of speculation just now is as to whether it will ever be possible to establish communications with the inhabitants of Mars and other planets. Asaph Hall, a well known astronomer, goes so far as to say that some day he expects to visit Mars; but M. Flammarion points out that even signalling, if it is possible, is likely to prove so very expensive that it can not be undertaken in earnest for many years. It should be remembered, however, that in the history of progress the impossible of yesterday became the reality of tomorrow. Interstellar communication may come through some new and unexpected discovery. The idea of discovering the chemical composition of the star was declared absurd by August Comte and other great thinkers a few years before the analysis of the spectrum caused a revelation to fall from the sky. The concentration of the best intellects learned in astronomy, the best instruments ever known, and unbounded enthusiasm of discovery upon the problem may lead to results little dreamed of in the human philosophy of the past or present.

Seen Through Democratic Eyes.

Brainerd opposed the nomination of Judge Searle at the Duluth convention, partly because he people abhorred and reviled at the methods used by his managers in their attempt to carry the counties of Cass, Beltrami and Aitkin, and partly because they did not think his connection with certain great interests would insure the best possible representation for this great district in case of his election. But Judge Searle was nominated, and nominated, too, in spite of and notwithstanding the strenuous opposition of Brainerd and the entire northern end of the district. That this outcome is not satisfactory to the people can be ascertained with slight difficulty around there are threats and murmurings that are ominous to say the least. And Judge Searle is thoroughly frightened at the outlook. —St. Paul Globe.

To the Ladies.
The matter of Flora being placed in my hands for exhibition at the World's Fair, it has been determined to ask for a complete exhibit of the wild flowers, vines, climbers and ornamental grasses of the state. The fer family should be exhibited in their natural and growing condition. Each county to gather and put such specimens as may be found in the locality, and keep them until called for.
The flowers I desire to show in water colors and herbariums. When possible water color is preferred. When that cannot be obtained, then herbariums will be accepted, gotten up as nearly like the water color as possible.
The plan is to make careful drawings and coloring of the bud, leaf, open flower and seed vessel for the center of the page, adding the botanical and common names of the flower below. Afterwards illuminating the page with a conventional border and corner, using the flower of the central study as a motif. The whole would be of much interest to botanists as well as decorators and designers.
In almost every county there is some one competent to batize and classify the flowers, and also some one who will willingly paint them. All the early spring flowers can be secured in water colors as I have scribbled above, and it is my desire to have the exhibit as uniform and complete as possible.
The state superintendent of the Minnesota World's Fair exhibit has also asked me to secure through you committees, samples, properly dried and prepared in the very best manner, of the native grasses of the state both wild and tame, with correct name, and such other particulars as may be of interest to the general public.
I desire that all the specimens when completed, be sent me at my expense, so that I may divide, arrange and plan the best method of exhibiting them.
Carefully mark on back the correct address of owner, so as to insure the safe return of all exhibits that may be desired.
Enclosed find copy of an endorsement from Supt. Kiehl which, by inserting in your county papers, may be of use to you in inducing the children to help you in your work.

MARSH, Minn., July 1, '92.
I have written to Mrs. Hunt for information as to kind and size of paper to be used in herbarium or water color work and as soon as possible such paper will be furnished to any lady or ladies willing to assist in making this collection. There may also be some who cannot aid in this way who yet may be willing to send me specimens of some of the flowers of this county, (so rich in its flora) especially of those not found in the immediate vicinity of Brainerd.

THE MILL MEN STRIKE.
J. J. Howe & Co.'s Men Strike for Ten Hours.—The Demand Not Granted and the Mills Shut Down.
No Serious Trouble Anticipated.
On Wednesday a petition was presented to J. J. Howe, which is published below, signed by 108 out of the 130 men employed by the firm of J. J. Howe & Co., asking that the hours be reduced from eleven to ten with no reduction in wages, and Mr. Howe was asked to give the men an answer by Friday evening. The following is the petition:
BRAINERD, Minn., Aug. 10, 1892.
To J. J. Howe & Co.,
Gentlemen:—We, the undersigned employees of your firm, working in your saw mill in the above named city, respectfully request that the hours of labor in said mill be reduced to ten hours per day, without reduction of wages. We urge the justice and practicability of such reduction for the reasons herein set forth:
1. Our employment is of such a laborious character that a day longer than ten hours is too heavy a strain upon our strength and endurance, and makes the burdens of life greater than any working man should be required to endure.
2. The condition of the lumber trade is at present very encouraging for manufacturers, the trade journals reporting higher prices, increased demand, and a prospect of still further improvement. We would respectfully submit that the prosperity of the mill owners ought to result in giving their employees relief from that portion of their day's toil which is in excess of the usual length of time worked per day in nearly every line of manufacture in the country, especially in view of the fact that saw mill work is more arduous than the work required in the most of other lines of manufacture.
3. We appeal for relief on the ground, also, that the spirit of these modern times gives us reason to ask that the interests of our families and our home life, and that our opportunities for rest and improvement, be considered, and that we no longer be required to work so many hours per day that the burden and strain of excessive toil deprives us of the ability to find time free from fatigue for mental improvement and the ordinary recreation and enjoyments of life.
Believing that you cannot fail to see the justice of our appeal, we respectfully subscribe our names.
Mr. Howe sent word to his employees to meet him at the mill office in the yard at the close of the day's work yesterday, and accordingly they assembled there at 6 o'clock. Mr. Howe stepped out of the office and addressed the men, stating that he had carefully perused their petition and had considered it from every point of view but that he was unable to accede to the request. In support of the argument he stated that the product of his Brainerd mills were placed upon the same market as that of the mills of Little Falls, Cloquet, Superior and Duluth, and as those mills all worked eleven hours it would be suicidal for him to attempt to do business on the ten hour system and compete with mills which run eleven hours. He stated that he would like to retain all the men who were now working for him, but that he "had no string on them nor they on him" and if it was their determination to work ten hours or quit he would give them their time and endeavor to fill their places with other men. He also stated that he had been in communication with the milling companies of the towns named and that he was certain that they worked eleven hours, but did not have the telegrams with him.
After he made this statement the men began to disperse and the determination was "ten hours or no sawdust" as expressed by several, and a meeting was held on Front street west last evening by the employees to determine on their future action. The men expressed their willingness to fight it out on the line begun. It is probable that they will remain firm. Another meeting will be held this evening.
The men deny that eleven hours is a day's work in the places mentioned except Little Falls, and a telegram was received by the committee this morning from Cloquet stating that ten hours was a day's work there and overtime paid for extra.
The mill has been idle today and yesterday but is expected to start again unless the matter is satisfactorily adjusted.

Gus Heege in 'Yon Yonson.'

"Yon Yonson is coming to town."
This announcement so lavishly distributed, may after Thursday, Aug. 18, when he appears in this city at the opera house, be changed into "Yon Yonson has come" and that he saw and conquered. For there can be no semblance of doubt but that this play, dealing as it does with one of the most picturesque features of life in the great Northwest, and introducing to the stage a character, the delineation of which has never yet been successfully attempted, will be eminently successful. In "Yon Yonson," the Swedish lumberman from "Yimtown, Nord Dakota," Gus Heege, who by the way is one of the authors of the piece, has evolved a character that has never been seen before and that is in fact immense. Apart from the literary merit of the play, which in addition to an intensely interesting story and situations of wonderful force, there is enough breezy bubbling humor in it to set up a dozen farce comedies in business. Neither care nor money have been spared to render the scenic and mechanical equipments perfect in every detail as they are original in design. Particularly is this true of the great log jam scene wherein one of the most exciting incidents connected with lumber camp life is depicted with a vivid realism that is calculated to take one's breath away. The company engaged in the interpretation of "Yon Yonson" is the strongest that has ever visited Brainerd.
A temperance meeting will be held in the First Congregational church Tuesday, Aug. 16th, at 8 p. m.

The Berger-Dainty Company.
The above named company will be here on Friday evening, Aug. 19, to give the people of Brainerd a rich treat of delightful music, vocal and instrumental, and splendid readings, by artists in these lines of the highest order and widest renown.
Miss Berger, the comedist, is the "star" of the famous Berger family. Her name is a household word from Maine to California, as well as in many countries in Europe, London, China, India, Japan, Australia, and elsewhere, conceded by critics to be without a rival.
Master Leon Marx, the wonderful boy violinist with an artist soul, a mechanical proficiency. His unconquerable perseverance places him almost side by side with the great masters of the violin in the world. His delicacy of shading combined with fire and nerve carries irresistibly his audience on the wave of enthusiastic appreciation. His violin is a genuine cernona of 1772 valued at $1,000.
Laura Dainty, the queen of entertainers has an admirable mimetic power, a vivacious manner, exquisite and beautiful enunciation, straightforward delivery, and is received with great enthusiasm and compelled to extend her program by encores. She is unquestionably the best of readers, moving crowded audiences to laughter or to tears at will. "I know of no public reader who gives such pleasure, who seems to me to have the same remarkable dramatic power."—Edward Everett Hale. "Laura Dainty came to Boston, took us by surprise, captured us by her charming artless act and went away a friend who we delight to honor."—Wendell Phillips.

To the Ladies.
The matter of Flora being placed in my hands for exhibition at the World's Fair, it has been determined to ask for a complete exhibit of the wild flowers, vines, climbers and ornamental grasses of the state. The flora family should be exhibited in their natural and growing condition. Each county to gather and put such specimens as may be found in the locality, and keep them until called for. The flowers I desire to show in water colors and herbariums. When possible water color is preferred. When that cannot be obtained, then herbariums will be accepted, gotten up as nearly like the water color as possible.

The plan is to make careful drawings and colorings of the bud, leaf, open flower and seed vessel for the centre of the page, adding the botanical and common names of the flower below. Afterwards illuminating the space with a conventional border and corner, using the flower of the central study as a motif. The whole would be of much interest to botanists as well as decorators and designers.

In almost every county there is some one competent to botanize and classify the flowers, and also some one who will willingly paint them. All the early spring flowers can be secured in water colors as I have described above, and it is my desire to have the exhibit as uniform and complete as possible.

The state superintendent of the Minnesota World's Fair exhibit has also asked me to secure through your committee, samples, properly dried and prepared in the very best manner, of the native grasses of the state both wild and tame, with correct name, and such other particulars as may be of interest to the general public.

I desire that all the specimens when completed, be sent me at my expense, so that I may divide, arrange and plan the best method of exhibiting them.

Carefully mark on back the correct address of owner, so as to insure the safe return of all exhibits that may be desired.

Enclosed find copy of an endorsement from Supt. Kiehle which, by inserting in your county papers, may be of use to you in inducing the children to help you in your work.

MAKATO, Minn., July 1, '92.

I have written to Mrs. Hunt for information as to kind and size of paper to be used in herbarium or water color work and as soon as possible such paper will be furnished to any lady or ladies willing to assist in making this collection. There may also be some who cannot aid in this way who yet may be willing to send me specimens of some of the flowers of this county, (so rich in its flora) especially of those not found in the immediate vicinity of Brainerd.

AGNES A. GILLIS,
County Chairman of Com. on Flora.

THE MILL MEN STRIKE.

J. J. Howe & Co.'s Men Strike for Ten Hours.—The Demand Not Granted and the Mills Shut Down.

No Serious Trouble Anticipated.

On Wednesday a petition was presented to J. J. Howe, which is published below, signed by 108 out of the 130 men employed by the firm of J. J. Howe & Co., asking that the hours be reduced from eleven to ten with no reduction in wages, and Mr. Howe was asked to give the men an answer by Friday evening. The following is the petition:

BRAINERD, Minn., Aug. 10, 1892.

To J. J. Howe & Co.,
Brainerd, Minn.

Gentlemen: We, the undersigned employees of your firm, working in your saw mill in the above named city, respectfully request that the hours of labor in said mill be reduced to ten hours per day, without reduction of wages. We urge the justice and practicality of such reduction for the reasons herein set forth:

1. Our employment is of such a laborious character that a day longer than ten hours is too heavy a strain upon our strength and endurance, and makes the burdens of life greater than any working man should be required to endure.

2. The condition of the lumber trade is at present very encouraging for manufacturers, the trade journals reporting higher prices, increased demand, and prospect of still further improvement. We would respectfully submit that the prosperity of the mill owners ought to result in giving their employees relief from that portion of their day's toil which is in excess of ten hours per day, without reduction of wages. We urge the justice and practicality of such reduction for the reasons herein set forth:

A NEW PAPER IS TO BE STARTED AT

Little Falls by Will Workman now conducted by the Herald.

The democratic nominee for congress, Maj. Baldwin, is an unknown quantity outside of Duluth, and the votes in November will prove the assertion.

The Brainerd democratic congressional convention stood out for free-trade, pure and simple, and there were those there who dared to no assert. There is nothing like going on record in such matters.

The Stearns county state man,

Henry Keller, is sore over the results of the democratic congressional convention and it is uncertain if the wound will heal before the November election. The fight was Duluth against the entire district and Duluth won.

When mention was made that although Col. Baldwin had been a volunteer he had never applied for a position, at the democratic convention on Tuesday, every delegate cheered lutely, and in fact what appeared to be the best hit of the day to the democrats was a direct insult to every old soldier in the district.

Dr. A. A. Ames, the erst-while stuffed prophet and Cleveland wit of Minnesota democracy, seems to be having a hard time of it trying to convince the public that he is still a very proper man. By the way, isn't this the fellow who was spoken of for a trotting mate for Grover some four years ago?

A DISPATCH states that A. DeLacy

Wood, of Sauk Rapids, Two Harbors

and elsewhere, has arrived at Milaca and will conduct a democratic campaign sheet to aid the representative ticket in the Forty-ninth district. He is said to be aided by Stivers, of

The Democrats Nominate M. R. Baldwin, of Duluth, for Congress.

The democratic congressional convention for the new district was held in this city on Tuesday, and each of the twenty counties, excepting Beltrami, which are included in its boundaries were represented and seventy-five out of the 114 delegates were present. The convention was called to order at 10:30 by Chairman

Stivers who seized the opportunity to deliver a speech on the tariff which was eagerly devoured by the delegates, at the end of which he announced that at a caucus held the evening before D. T. Calhoun, of Stearns county, had been selected for chairman and J. H. Wendell, of Wright, and C. F. McDonald, Jr., of St. Louis county, as secretaries. The caucus nominees were immediately elected by the convention. Mr. Calhoun took the platform and spoke for fifteen minutes, in which he claimed reciprocity was a humbug, but failed to say why, that the republican candid not know of any falsehood and declared it predicted that this year only democrats would be elected to office.

This appeared to please his hearers immutably.

The usual committees were appointed, Senator Geisler heading the committee on resolutions, O. A. Peterson, on credentials and H. A. Peterson on permanent organization.

The convention, then adjourned and the afternoon session commenced at 2 o'clock by accepting the various committee reports. On resolutions the Chicago platform was endorsed and a demand for the reduction of the tariff to a purely revenue basis made.

To the Ladies.

The matter of Flora being placed in my hands for exhibition at the World's Fair, it has been determined to ask for a complete exhibit of the wild flowers, vines, climbers and ornamental grasses of the state. To for family should be exhibited in their natural and growing condition. Each county to gather and put such specimens as may be found in the locality, and keep them until called for. The flowers I desire to show in water colors and herbariums. When possible water color is preferred. When that cannot be obtained, then herbariums will be accepted, gotten up as nearly like the water color as possible.

The plan is to make careful drawings and colorings of the bud, leaf, open flower and seed vessel for the center of the page, adding the botanical and common names of the flower below. Afterwards illuminating the page with a conventional border and corner, using the flower of the central study as a model. The whole would be of much interest to botanists as well as decorators and designers.

In almost every county there is some one competent to batelize and classify the flowers, and also some one who will willingly paint them. All the early spring flowers can be secured in water colors as I have described above, and it is my desire to have the exhibit as uniform and complete as possible.

The state superintendent of the Minnesota World's Fair exhibit has also asked me to secure through your committee, samples, properly dried and prepared in the very best manner, of the native grasses of the state both wild and tame, with correct name, and such other particulars as may be of interest to the general public.

I desire that all the specimens when completed, be sent me at my expense, so that I may divide, arrange and plan the best method of exhibiting them.

Carefully mark on back the correct address of owner, so as to insure the safe return of all exhibits that may be desired.

Enclosed find copy of an endorsement from Supt. Kichle which, by inserting in your county papers, may be of use to you in inducing the children to help you in your work.

THE MILL MEN STRIKE.

J. J. Howe & Co.'s Men Strike for Ten Hours.—The Demand Not Granted at the Mills. Shut Down.

No Serious Trouble Anticipated.

On Wednesday a petition was presented to J. J. Howe, which is published below, signed by 108 out of the 130 men employed by the firm of J. J. Howe & Co., asking that the hours be reduced from eleven to ten with no reduction in wages, and Mr. Howe was asked to give the men an answer by Friday evening. The following is the petition:

BRAINERD, Minn., Aug. 10, 1892.

To J. J. Howe & Co., Brainerd, Minn.:

Gentlemen: We, the undersigned employees of your firm, working in your saw mill in the above named city, respectfully request that the hours of labor in said mill be reduced to ten hours per day, without reduction of wages. We urge the justice and practicability of such reduction for the reasons herein set forth:

1. Our employment is of such a laborious character that a day longer than ten hours is too heavy a strain upon our strength and endurance and makes the burdens of life greater than any working man should be required to endure.

2. The condition of the lumber trade is at present very encouraging for manufacturers, the trade journals reporting higher prices, increased demand and prospects of still further improvement. We would respectfully submit that the prosperity of the mill owners ought to result in giving their employees relief from that portion of their day's toil which is in excess of the usual length of time worked per day in nearly every line of manufacturing industry, especially in view of the fact that saw mill work is more arduous than the work required in the most of other lines of manufacture.

We appeal for relief on the ground, also, that the spirit of these modern times gives us reason to ask that the interests of our families and our home life, and that our opportunities for rest and improvement, be considered, and that we be no longer required to work so many hours per day that the burden and strain of excessive toil deprives us of the ability to find time free from fatigue for mental improvement and the ordinary recreation and enjoyments of life.

Believing that you cannot fail to see the justice of our appeal, we respectfully subscribe our names.

Mr. Howe sent word to his employees to meet him at the mill office in the yard at the close of the day's work yesterday, and accordingly they assembled there at 6 o'clock. Mr. Howe stepped out of the office and addressed the men, stating that he had carefully perused their petition and had considered it from every point of view but that he was unable to accede to the request. In support of the argument he stated that the product of his Brainerd mills were placed upon the same market as that of the mills of Little Falls, Cloquet, Superior and Duluth, and as those mills all worked eleven hours it would be suicidal for him to attempt to do business on the ten hour system and compete with mills which run eleven hours. He stated that he would like to retain all the men who were now working for him, but that he "had no string on them nor they on him" and if it was their determination to work ten hours or quit he would give them their time and endeavor to fill their places with other men. He also stated that he had been in communication with the milling companies of the towns named and that he was certain that they worked eleven hours, but did not have the telegrams with him.

After he made this statement the men began to disperse and the determination was "ten hours or no sawdust" as expressed by several, and a meeting was held on Front street west last evening by the employees to determine on their future action. The men expressed their willingness to fight it out on the line began. It is probable that they will remain firm. Another meeting will be held this evening.

The men deny that eleven hours is a day's work in the places mentioned except Little Falls, and a telegram was received by the committee this morning from Cloquet stating that ten hours was a day's work there and overtime paid for extra.

The mill has been idle today and will probably remain so for some time unless the matter is satisfactorily adjusted.

Gus Heege in Yon Yonson.

"Yon Yonson is coming to town."

This announcement so lavishly distributed, may after Thursday, Aug. 18, when he appears in this city at the opera house, be changed into "Yon Yonson has come" and that he saw and conquered. For there can be no semblance of doubt but that this play, dealing as it does with one of the most picturesque features of life in the great Northwest, and introducing to the stage a character, the delineation of which has never yet been successfully attempted, will be eminently successful. In "Yon Yonson," the Swedish lumberman from "Yimtown, Nord Dakota," Gus Heege, who by the way is one of the authors of the piece, has evolved a character that has never been seen before and that is in fact immense. Apart from the literary merit of the play, which in addition to an intensely interesting story and situations of wonderful force, there is enough breezy bubbling humor in it to set up a dozen farce comedies in business. Neither care nor money have been spared to render the scenic and mechanical equipments perfect in every detail as they are original in design. Particularly is this true of the great log jam scene wherein one of the most exciting incidents connected with lumber camp life is depicted with a vivid realism that is calculated to take one's breath away. The company engaged in the interpretation of "Yon Yonson" is the strongest that has ever visited Brainerd.

The Berger-Dainty Company.

The above named company will be here on Friday evening, Aug. 19, to give the people of Brainerd a rich treat of delightful music, vocal and instrumental, and splendid renditions, by artists in these lines of the highest order and widest renown.

Miss Berger, the cornetist, is the "star" of the famous Berger family.

Her name is a household word from Maine to California, as well as in many countries in Europe, London, China, India, Japan, Australia, and elsewhere, conceded by critics to be without a rival.

Master Leon Marx, the wonderful boy violinist with an artist soul, a mechanical proficiency, his unconquerable perseverance places him almost side by side with the great masters of the violin in the world. His delicacy of shading combined with fire and nerve carries irresistibly his audience on the wave of enthusiastic appreciation. His violin is a genuine cernona of 1772 valued at $1,000.

Laura Dainty, the queen of entertainers has an admirable mimetic power, a vivacious manner, exquisite and beautiful enunciation, straight-forward delivery, and is received with great enthusiasm and compelled to extend her program by encores. She is unquestionably the best of real moving crowd-enticers to laughter or to tears at will. "I know of no public reader who gives such pleasure, who seems to me to have the same remarkable dramatic power."—Edward Everett Hale. "Laura Dainty came to Boston, took us by surprise, captured us by her charming artless and went away a friend who we delight to honor."—Wendell Phillips.

Read carefully the circulars, remember the date and be sure to go and you will have a rich treat.
